CERERAL NOTES

The universal question is Will the railroad company run a special train " and no one is able to unawar. It has been suggested that the company start a train from Portland at noon, arriving here in tume for the races and caving immediately after. This will give lovers of sports an opportunity for grant's ing their pleasure with the loss of only half a day's time, and at an expense less than r true to East Portland park, the tare being only $1 to Hillsboro and return. If the dompany cannot do this, it is suggested that they send a train out after the races.

The horses took to the water like ducks and after landing askly on the other side the command chimbed the mountain and entered a snow storm, which continued more or less for four days. It was pretty rough up among the clouds, but when the bors got in o came at night, kicket the striffing out of in o camp at night, kicked the stiffing out of a rotten leg and found dry timber enough to start a first, their spirits mae, and as they munchest their hardiach and sipped their black coffes, they felt that none but the brave destreed the grant same upon us again, and westruck Big oreek and camped at the foot of Vinegar hill—so called from the fact that when Catley's command was fortified upon it last year, he issued vinegar to the men to drink, as they had no water. Lieut. Catley, with 48 men, was hunting hostiles in Catley, with 43 men, was hunting hostiles in here, and had got two miles further down here creek when a key shots were fired by the Ludiaus who were posted among the rocks, wounding two men. Catley ordered retress to this piace and next informing took to a position on Vinegar hill, a high, bald mountain above us. A few Indiaus showes themselves, and the man commenced showing at them, but the officers ordered them to case firing, as it would aggravate the Indiaus Bah! The men were anxious to leave the hill and fight, but the officers said no and were only anxious to get away. The Indiaus set fire to the grass, but Dave Monroe the guida, also fired it around the camp, and when the Indiau it approached there was wreighes.
